

The Huguenot Library Workshops

Workshops will be held in our reading room at The National Archives on Tuesday 21 May at 11am and 2pm.

As places are limited please book well in advance by contacting the Librarian

Come and discover a selection of prints and manuscripts from charities and organisations set up to help Huguenot refugees. There will be items from the French Hospital archives, the Westminster French Protestant School, regional charitable societies, and family papers from the 17th century onward.

You will also be able to find out which items we hold to help with your genealogical research, and explore the Library's open-access holdings.

Training sessions on how to use the electronic resources available to all members on the Society's website will run throughout the day. They will specifically focus on making the most of the digitised Royal Bounty archive.
